MEMORANDUM FOR VISITING UNITS FROM

VOLK FIELD CRTCC/CC

SUBJECT: Visiting Unit Expectations

1. Thank you for choosing Volk Field for your training event. We hope that we will exceed your expectations and deliver a worthwhile experience for your members. As one of four Combat Readiness Training Centers in the Air National Guard, we offer unique opportunities to accomplish events that would otherwise be cumbersome or impossible to complete at your home station. While we strive to be a first-class customer service organization, there are some ground rules that I feel are important to establish.
2. Volk Field employees take tremendous pride in our facilities, equipment, and infrastructure. We ask that you make yourselves at home during the course of your visit and treat the staff and facilities as if they were your own. Please report any damage to equipment or facilities to the Volk Staff for our awareness and action. We understand that accidents happen and will work with you to resolve these issues as they arise. In the event that equipment or facilities are damaged, we will seek reimbursement from your unit to restore the resource to their previous condition.
3. While Volk Field offers a rare environment to eliminate distractions and roadblocks to training, this occasionally results in disciplinary issues. We expect that you will swiftly deal with any disciplinary issues that arise. Any incidents related to or involving the use of alcohol or prohibited substances, sexual assault/harassment, contact with law enforcement, or involving Volk Field staff must be reported to myself or my deputy as soon as possible. Reporting security events and violations, such as those involving controlled areas, is required to the Security Manager or Controlled Area Monitor in charge of the facility in question. Egregious or repeat violations may result in loss of privileges for your members.
4. We encourage you to keep safety at the forefront of your thoughts during your training at Volk Field. Should an injury occur, we have limited treatment resources available depending on severity. We ask that our safety office is kept informed of any mishaps to personnel or equipment that occur during your visit. Our safety office will work closely with your unit representatives to appropriately document the incident and determine follow-on actions.
5. Following your visit, we ask that you provide timely and relevant feedback to the Volk Field staff so that we can continue to strive for improvement. Please work with the Volk Field scheduling team to provide this data in a format that can assist us with future decision making. We value your opinions and seek honest feedback on what we are doing well and where we need to improve.
6. If there are any issues at any point during your stay that we can help you solve, please work with the Volk Field staff. I trust that they will handle your problems in a professional and courteous manner. If that is not the case, please contact myself or my deputy so we can help fix your concerns. We hope to see you back at Volk Field in the future!

SAFETY BRIEF

The Safety Office asks that you practice good Risk Management. Contact the Safety Office at 427-1230 if you have questions!

Surrounding Area:

The surrounding area does not have any area that is restricted for military personnel. There are no high-traffic areas that you would need to avoid. If there is a status change and areas become restricted, there will be a posting in Bldg 475 and your chain of command will be notified so that they can inform you.

The Base:

The base speed limit is 25 mph unless otherwise posted and 15 mph around troops. No cell phone usage is permitted while driving on base unless it is hands free. Wisconsin has a “no text while driving” law and seat belt usage is mandatory on and off base. Riding in the back of pickup trucks is not permitted without a waiver (waiver applies to military trucks only).

The maximum blood alcohol level (BAC) is 0.08 in Wisconsin. Security will not hesitate to pull you over if they smell alcohol.

To operate a motorcycle on base, you must have a valid motorcycle license; have completed motorcycle safety training; wear a DOT-approved helmet, glasses or shield, gloves, and bright upper garment; long sleeves, and long pants.

Bicyclists will wear helmets and a highly visible outer garment during the day and an outer garment containing retro-reflective material at night.

The use of headphones, earphones, cellular phones, iPods, or other listening and entertainment devices (other than hearing aids) are allowed on the sidewalks and running paths at Volk Field. You must stay within the crosswalks. Wearing these devices on roadways is not authorized or compliant with the Air Force Traffic Safety Program.

Local Environmental Conditions:

Weather in Wisconsin is variable and ranges from rain, sleet, snow, and hail, to high winds, humidity, and heat, often in the same day. When there is snow and ice on the road, be a defensive driver and allow extra time to get from point A to point B.

Volk Field is nestled in the woods and out in the country. You may encounter wildlife. There are deer, coyotes, turkeys, squirrels, bears, and skunks that cohabitate with us at Volk Field. Please do not feed or touch the wildlife.

Ticks and mosquitos are abundant. Make sure you are using bug spray and checking for ticks. Contact Medical Personnel if a target-shaped redness appears on skin or if “flu-like” symptoms occur.

ANTI-TERRORISM (ATO)

Terrorism is defined as: The calculated use of violence, or the threat of violence, to inculcate fear; intended to coerce or intimidate governments or societies in the pursuit of goals that are generally political, religious, or ideological.

What to Report:

Surveillance: Someone recording or monitoring activities. This may include the use of cameras (either still or video), note taking, drawing diagrams, annotating on maps, or using binoculars or other vision-enhancing devices.

Elicitation: People or organizations attempting to gain information about military operations, capabilities, or people. Examples could include being asked about what's happening at the base, getting troop strength numbers, or the number of airplanes on base.

Tests of Security: Any attempts to measure reaction times to security breaches or to penetrate physical security barriers or procedures in order to assess strengths and weaknesses. Example: A person grabs the base fence and shakes it to see how long it takes for police to respond.

Acquiring Supplies: Purchasing or stealing explosives, weapons, ammunition, detonators, timers, etc. Also includes acquiring military uniforms, decals, flight manuals, passes, or badges (or the equipment to manufacture such items) or other controlled items.

Suspicious Persons Out of Place: People who don't seem to belong in the workplace, neighborhood, business establishment, or anywhere else. This category is hard to define, but the point is that people know what looks right and what doesn't look right in their neighborhoods, office spaces, commutes, etc. If a person just doesn't seem like s/he belongs, there's probably a reason for that.

Dry Run: Putting people into position and moving them around according to their plan without actually committing the terrorist act. An element of this activity could also include mapping out routes and determining the timing of traffic flow. Take note of people moving around from place to place without any apparent purpose and doing it, perhaps, many times.

Deploying Assets: People and supplies getting into position to commit the act. This is your last opportunity to alert authorities before a terrorist act occurs. Look for people loading up vehicles with weaponry/explosives, etc., and/or parking that vehicle somewhere, or people in military uniforms (who don't look right) approaching an installation or getting into a vehicle, or people who seem out of place standing by at a certain locations as if waiting for something to happen.

What to do...

REMEMBER TO PROTECT YOURSELF FIRST

DO NOT confront the person.

DO NOT tamper with suspicious looking packages.

DO NOT disturb suspicious object(s).

If you suspect anything suspicious, you should be prepared to:

- Give a description of the person(s): Gender, race, height, weight, age, clothing, etc.
- Mode of transportation: Type, color, make, model, etc.
- Type of suspicious activity: Surveillance, elicitation, etc.
- Location of suspicious activity: Address, building, street, etc.

HISTORY

VOLK FIELD AIR NATIONAL GUARD BASE

The origin of Volk Field and Camp Williams can be traced back to 1888, when the State Adjutant General, General Chandler Chapman, purchased a site for a rifle range and offered it to the state for training. In 1889, the State Legislature authorized the purchase of 600 acres for a permanent camp and rifle range for the Wisconsin National Guard. By 1903, it had expanded to over 800 acres and became a model training camp that was often visited by officials from other states. The site was named Camp Williams in 1927 in honor of Lt Col Charles R. Williams, who was the Chief Quartermaster of the post from 1917 until his death in 1926.

In 1936, construction of the airfield began. However, it was August 1940 before the first hard surface runway was opened. In 1949, the 148th Fighter Interceptor Squadron from Duluth, Minnesota, began using the airfield for its training. During the Korean War and the remainder of the 1950s, units from Colorado, Indiana, Kansas, New York, North and South Dakota, Minnesota, Missouri, Washington, DC, and Wisconsin trained at the field.

In 1954, the Federal Government leased the field from the State of Wisconsin for use as a Permanent Field Training Site (PFTS). That same year, the Hardwood Air-to-Ground Gunnery Range opened near Finley, Wisconsin. The first jet aircraft landed on the airfield in 1955. A small portion of the base remained as Camp Williams.

In the 1980s, Volk Field began year-round operations for training the Wisconsin ANG as well as units from all other services and some foreign countries. Volk Field and Camp Williams remain two separate installations within a cojoined perimeter. Volk Field ANGB is physically the larger of the two, consisting of approximately 2,300 acres and 450+ full- and part-time personnel in three separate units: the Combat Readiness Training Center (CRTC), the 128th Air Control Squadron (ACS), and the 126th Weather Flight (WF).

On June 23, 1956, during the annual Governor's Day observances at Camp Williams, the National Guard rededicated the part of the facility that was used by the Air National Guard as "Volk Field", in memory of First Lieutenant Jerome A. Volk, the first Wisconsin Air National Guard pilot killed in combat".

Lieutenant Volk entered the Enlisted Reserve Corps, U.S. Army, on June 15, 1943, and began the Air Cadet Training Program seven days later. He successfully completed the program, graduated, and received his commission as a Second Lieutenant in the Army Air Corps on December 22, 1943. During World War II, he flew P-51s and qualified for the American Campaign Medal.

Lieutenant Volk joined the Wisconsin Air National Guard on January 12, 1949, and was assigned to the 126th Fighter Squadron in Milwaukee. He was promoted to First Lieutenant on August 24, 1949. On February 28, 1951, Lieutenant Volk was called to active duty and his squadron to serve with the U.S. Air Force. He was assigned to duty in the 35th Fighter

UNITS

COMBAT READINESS TRAINING CENTER (CRTC)

The Air National Guard Combat Readiness Training Center (CRTC) at Volk Field Air National Guard Base (ANGB), in Wisconsin, is one of four CRTCs located in the United States. The others are located in Alpena, Michigan, Gulfport, Mississippi, and Savannah, Georgia.

The CRTCs are funded by the National Guard Bureau (NGB) in Washington, D.C., and are directly under the command of the State Adjutant General. Though primarily tasked with supporting Air National Guard (ANG) units, the CRTCs provide training opportunities for all Department of Defense (DoD) services and components. Besides the ANG, Volk Field regularly supports forces from the Army National Guard (ARNG), Active Air Force, Air Force Reserves (AFRes), the Marine Corps, and Naval Reserves. Nonmilitary users include federal, state, and local First Responder agencies, the Civil Air Patrol, and youth organizations.

The mission of the CRTC is to provide a year-round training environment for ANG units to enhance their combat readiness. The CRTC allows training to be accomplished that isn't possible at the unit's home station. The facilities provide a realistic setting for the conduction of unit Operational Readiness Exercises and Inspections (OREs/ORIs). Additionally, the CRTC oversees operations and scheduling of the Hardwood Weapons Range (HWR) and over 11,200 miles² of military special use training airspace.

UNITS

128TH AIR CONTROL SQUADRON

FEDERAL MISSION

Worldwide Deployable Control and Reporting Center (CRC): The federal mission of the 128 ACS is to maintain and operate a Control and Reporting Center. The CRC is a mobile command, control, and communications radar element of the U.S. Air Force Command and Control Enterprise. The CRC integrates a comprehensive air picture via multiple data links from air-, sea-, and land-based sensors, as well as from its surveillance and control radars. It performs decentralized command and control of joint operations by conducting threat warning, battle management, theater missile defense, weapons control, combat identification, and strategic communications.

STATE MISSION

Provide the Governor of Wisconsin the capability for a highly mobile Command, Control, Computer, Communications, and Intelligence element, capable of supporting any contingency. This mission encompasses natural disaster relief, counter-narcotics activities to local law enforcement agencies, and support to State agencies during times of crisis.

CRTC MISSION

Enhance the CRTC capabilities by providing flying units with Command, Control, Communications, Computer, and Intelligence support during inspections, exercises, and annual training. On a daily basis the 128 ACS provides airspace management to ANG and AFRes aircrews from seven surrounding states.

FACILITIES

The 128 ACS occupies six facilities on the Volk Field CRTC. The Headquarters, Maintenance, and Operations are located in a state-of-the-art facility. Radar Maintenance is located in a building near the radar while Vehicle Maintenance, Aerospace Ground Equipment

(AGE), and Material Control are collocated with Volk Field facilities sharing common resources.

RESOURCES

The CRC consists of several separate subsystems all integrated to perform its various missions. The AN/TPS-75 Radar System is a mobile tactical radar system capable of providing 3-D 360-degree coverage out to 240NM. It provides a "real-time" radar airspace picture and data in support of the Joint Forces Air Component Commander (JFACC). The data from the TPS-75 is passed to the AN/TYQ-23 Operations Module (OM) for processing and action by operators.

The OM is the heart of the CRC as it displays the information obtained from various sensors. It is a transportable, tailorable, and automated C2 battle management system capable of supporting worldwide contingency operations. It provides a versatile means of acquiring real-time and near-real-time (NRT) information from multiple air-, sea-, land-, and space-based sensors. It enables C2 of air and space forces through the spectrum of military operations, and collaterally provides joint and theater commanders with an accurate and reliable integrated battle space picture.

The CRC has Theater Deployable Communications (TDC), which is a ground-to-ground communications infrastructure designed to transmit and receive voice, data, and video communications securely to or from wireless, satellite, or hard-wired sources.
